10 CENTS PER WEEK

A WET BEGINNING

Labor Day Ushered in By a Heavy Downpour in Paducah.

The Holiday Hids Fair to Be Enjoyed By Many People Here Nevertheless.

CITY BUSINESS IS SUSPENDED

Labor day is today for the first time in Kentucky a legal holiday, and in Paducah it bids fair to be enjoyed, despite the inclement weather. This morning a heavy rainstorm ushered in the day, but there were many people on the streets from 9 o'clock on, and the indications are that there will be a large crowd at the park.

Several times it promised to clear off, and several times disappointed the crowds.

There has been a general suspension of business all over the city, most of the factories being closed, and the banks and postoffice enjoying a holiday with the others. A fine program has been prepared for the park, and festivities do not begin until this afternoon. The indications are that the crowd will be large, as there is nothing to do but enjoy the day, and no other place to go.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE.

MISS ELIZABETH WALSH ARRIVES TO INSTRUCT LOCAL TEACHERS.

Miss Elizabeth B. Walsh, of Louisville, arrived this morning and began a five days teachers' institute at the Washington school building on West Broadway.

Last spring Superintendent Hatfield visited the Louisville schools and was impressed with the conduct of the schools in general. The primary work, on which the whole system of education is based, particularly appealed to him, so he made an arrangement by which Miss Walsh, supervisor of primary work there, was to open the first week of September in institute work with his teachers. Applications from the country surrounding Paducah for permission to attend the institute have been coming to Superintendent Hatfield, so that a large meeting is anticipated.

Nearly all the teachers were in attendance this morning. Miss Ellen Willis is detained in Memphis by her mother's illness, and Miss Kirk is expected tomorrow from Cincinnati.

BLOOMING AGAIN.

Mrs. H. Clay Marlow of South Sixth street has a magnolia tree in bloom the second time this year, which is quite a rare occurrence.

Miss Kate Sanders will return this evening from a several weeks' visit to Elizabeth, Ind.

TO IMPROVE OHIO

Lock and Dam to Be Considered at the Improvement Association.

Congress Will be Asked to appropriate $50,000 for a Preliminary Survey.

MEETING HELD IN NOVEMBER

Captain J. F. Browinski, of Jopka, Ill., one of the vice presidents of the Ohio River Improvement Association, which held its last annual meeting in Paducah last fall, was in the city today on his way from Cincinnati to Jopka. Captain Browinski, who is a member of the board of directors, has received a notice from headquarters asking his opinion about the time for holding the next meeting, which is to be at Parkersburg, West Va., and the general opinion is that it will be the second week in November. This is the date others seem to favor, and will suit Captain Browinski.

A number of important matters are to come up before the association this year, as last. Although the meeting is to be held far away from this end of the river this time, a great deal will doubtless be done towards improving the lower Ohio.

One matter that will come up, according to Captain Browinski, will be the appropriation of $50,000 for a preliminary survey for a lock and dam near Mound City, Ill. The association will adopt a resolution asking congress to appropriate this much to make the survey, and the lock and dam will come up later. The cost of such an improvement will be about $600,000, but it will insure a boating stage of the Ohio from Cairo to Smithland the year around.

It is probable that the matter of building a dike near Ogden's Landing will also be discussed.

DIED OF DROPSY

Mr. Noah Park, a Well Known Citizen Dies at Florence.

Was Father of Judge D. G. Park, and Leaves Several Children.

Mr. Noah Park of Florence Station, who has been suffering from dropsy for the past several months, died Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock and the funeral was held at Florence Station yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, services conducted by Rev. Perkins of Mayfield.

The deceased was 75 years of age and leaves the following children: Messrs. J. O. Park of Florence and Judge D. G. Park of Mayfield and Mesdames Victoria Housman, Victoria Houser, Nora Boaz and Mary Derrington. Hon. William Reed, the well known attorney of the city, was a stepson.

CHARGED WITH FELONY.

JERRY DAVIS, COLORED, LANDED IN JAIL THIS MORNING.

Jerry Davis, colored, was arrested this morning on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses by selling to Mr. E. W. Kirksey some carpenter tools stolen from D. W. Harries.

He was locked up to await a hearing tomorrow before Judge Sanders, but his case will probably be turned over to the grand jury.

AUSPICIOUS OCCASION

Launching of Captain Koger's New Boat Tomorrow

The Name Will Not Be Known Until Launching is Over.

Tomorrow a new steamer will be launched at Howard's shipyard, Jeffersonville, Ind., for the United States mail service in the Tennessee river. It will be the property of the St. Louis and Tennessee River Packet company, and Captain James Koger, of Paducah, general superintendent, has conferred the honor of christening her upon Miss Lonie McDonald, and one of Louisville's most charming girls, and she in turn has selected as maids of honor Miss Victorine McDaniel, Miss Edna Roach, Miss Rose Ann Gillhooley and Miss Alice Ziegler. The boat's name is sealed in an envelope, which will not be opened until the launchings are ready to cut.

RIVER FRONT PROPERTY

THE CITY EXPECTS AN ANSWER ABOUT THE FIFTEENTH OF THE MONTH.

Chairman Young Taylor, of the committee to which was referred the matter of buying or leasing the Illinois Central property on the river front for additional wharf facilities, stated this morning that he had heard nothing definite from the Illinois Central, except that the matter will be passed on at a meeting of the board of directors the fifteenth of this month at Chicago.

The city thinks it can get the property for $21,000, and Chairman Taylor says the property will be secured by the city, if it has to be condemned.

PRIVATE HOSPITAL.

MRS. CORNELIUS MEYER IS PREPARING TO OPEN ONE HERE.

Mrs. Cornelius Meyer of 415 Court street is preparing to open a private hospital in Paducah, and will have the encouragement and assistance of a number of local doctors. She has been keeping a boarding house, but thinks an institution such as she intends to start would pay here. She is the lady whose little son, Hoyce Furbey, was recently killed on Broadway by a wagon.

KENTUCKY OPENS

The Arnold Stock Will Hold the Boards This Evening

Manager English Announces His Staff for the New Season.

The Kentucky will open tonight for the season of 1902-3, but the formal opening will not take place until September 15 or 22, it has not been decided which.

The park closed last Saturday night, and the only attraction in the city this week will be the Arnold Stock company, which open at The Kentucky this evening. It was here last season and made quite a hit.

Manager English announces his staff for the approaching season to be: Treasurer, Lee Hood; stage manager, Frank Johnson; musical director, Wm. Deal; master of props, Hurland Young; stage machinist, Robison Johnson; door-keeper, Ray Potter; gallery door-keeper, Will Epstein.

WOMAN CUT

CORA HURT CARVED BY MARY PULLEN, BUT NOT BADLY CUT.

Mary Pullen, colored, complained to Captain Henry Bailey last night that Cora Hurt, colored, had assaulted her on Washington street near Eighth, and in addition to striking her several times, tore her clothing almost off. The condition of her clothing bore her out in her assertion. She claimed that the Hurt woman followed her home and threw a brick at her as she went in the door. She attempted to defend herself with a knife.

A short time afterwards Captain Bailey received a telephone message stating that the Hurt woman was cut twice, but the wounds were not serious. It seems the other woman had used the penknife in defending herself more successfully than she thought. She gave herself up and was released to answer tomorrow.

BICYCLE RECOVERED.

O. C. Gilliam, an employee of the collar shop, reported the loss of his bicycle to the police Saturday night. It was taken from in front of Harbours, on North Third. Last night Lieutenant Moore found the wheel against the fence near Eleventh and Madison streets. No arrests were made, as the person who had had the wheel could not be found.

MANY ARRESTS MADE

Police This Month Made Nearly Three Hundred

Excellent Work Has Been Done Under the New Arrangement Recently Made.

DIGEST OF MONTH'S REPORT

The month of August has been a banner one for the police department. Yesterday closed Chief Collins' first month at the head of the local police, and the showing is most creditable. The number of arrests exceeds by 100 or more that of any previous month on record. The number of cases that "stuck" is also unusually large.

Chief Collins has worked hard, and with the efficient assistance of Chief Henry Bailey and Lieutenant T. J. Moore, has aroused an unusual amount of interest and enthusiasm among the officers.

The largest number of arrests made were by Rogers and Dugan, who have 26 to their credit, every case of which stuck when tried in court.

Chief Collins is justly proud of the record he and his men have made under the new methods. Chief Collins works both night and day, and has gotten the department in first class shape. The men, who work from noon to midnight and vice versa, give the city constant police protection, and it is believed to have proven most advantageous to the city.

The total number of arrests for the month was 278. They are divided as follows:

Captain Henry Bailey 2, Evitts and Harlan 23, Evitts and Woods 2, Evitts, Harlan and Woods 3, Harlan and Woods 15, Harlan and Johnson 4, Woods and Hammond 1, Woods, Koger and Dugan 1, Woods and Boaz 1, Woods and Johnson 1, Rogers and Dugan 26, Clark and Farrow 6, Clark and Nance 2, Wallace and Lyon 3, Joe Woods 5, Potter and Gourleux 6, Potter, Gourleux and Clark 1, Lynn and Whitehurst 15, Lynn and Evitts 1, Beadles and Johnson 15, Beadles and Walker 3, Johnson and Murray 1, Hessian and Friant 17, Hessian and Rogers 1, Hessian, Tolbert and Friant 13, Orr and Houser 7, Nance and Hovious 15, Singery and Nance 1, Singery and Owen 3, Singery and Miller 2, Clark and Hammond 8, Clark and Hammond, Dugan and Rogers 1, Frank Smedley 1.

The offenses were: Drunks 38, drunk and disorderly 7, disorderly conduct 32, breach of the peace 61, breach of ordinance 14, petty larceny 8, grand larceny 1, suspects 7, robbery 1, house breaking 1, money by false pretenses 2, malicious shooting 1, concealed weapons 5, immorality 8, vagrants 1, horse stealing 2, fugitive 2, murder 1, presenting a pistol 1, runaway girls 2, insulting language 2, adultery 2, malicious assault 1; total, 200. Saloons 68, bawdy houses 10; grand total, 278.

Patrol runs 169. Miles covered by the patrol, 299 4-12.

MARRIED AT METROPOLIS

PADUCAH GIRL MARRIES A MASSACHUSETTS FARMER.

Miss Minnie LeRoy of Paducah and Mr. August C. Kruger, a well known young farmer of Massachusetts, Ill., were married Saturday at Metropolis by Justice Liggett.

County Judge R. T. Lightfoot and wife returned yesterday from their trip to the Pacific coast, much benefited by the outing.

IN THE LOCAL COURTS

Grand Jury Was Impaneled this Morning By Judge Husbands

Hon. W. M. Reed Elected Special Judge for the Term—Little Business Today.

SOME OTHER COURT NEWS

The September term of criminal court began at the court house this morning with a large docket, but little business was transacted except the impaneling of the grand jury.

There are several murder cases. They are Charles Gordon, the negro who killed George Howard, a white man, Eli Hutchinson, who killed his brother-in-law, Henry Gray, Warner Woolfolk, alias "Skippy" and Spot Polk and Lon Fuqua, all but one being colored.

Hon. W. M. Reed, was this morning elected special judge for the term, to act in case Judge Husbands, who is suffering from rheumatism, becomes too ill to hold court.

The sheriff, Leo Potter, and deputies, Messrs. William Lydon, H. F. Lyon and George Houser, were sworn in and the following grand jury was impaneled and charged:

L. F. Polk, D. B. Ogilvie, W. H. Cunningham, Frank Niehoff, F. B. May, Henry Houser, H. E. Johnson, Thomas Gaines, S. J. Billington, T. J. Powell, J. A. Rudy, J. L. Bethshares.

On motion of Hon. William Reed, Attorney J. D. Ross, late of Paris, Tenn., was admitted to the local bar and was sworn.

Susan Potter was granted a divorce from Oecola Potter.

Rosa Jenkins was divorced from Louis Jenkins.

There will be nothing of importance done today, and the petit jury will not be impaneled until tomorrow, when the regular business of the court will be entered into.

Quarterly court was this morning convened, but was adjourned over until Wednesday. There are many cases on the docket, but can be easily and hastily tried and settled. Judge Lightfoot is much improved in health, the result of the trip.

Owing to its being Labor day, there was no session of the police court this morning. Judge Sanders will convene court at the regular hour tomorrow morning.

Circuit court began at the following places this morning: Cadiz, Trigg county; Smithland, Livingston county; Hickman, Fulton county.

NEGRO LIED

THE MAN HE IS SUPPOSED TO BE IS IN THE MEMPHIS WORKHOUSE.

Captain Henry Bailey is confident that the negro arrested Friday, supposed to be the fugitive murderer wanted at Bonne Terre, Mo., is the right man. He said his name was Armstrong and that he lived in Memphis. The Memphis officers were written in regard to him, and yesterday Captain Bailey received a reply that Armstrong was in the workhouse there.

It seems that the negro in jail here knew the Memphis negro and attempted to impersonate him in order to secure his freedom. He will be held until the officers can have him identified, and ascertain whether he is their man or not.

Mr. James Wahl and wife of New Orleans are here visiting relatives.

A MERITED COMPLIMENT

COLONEL J. J. DORIAN APPOINTED FOR THE FOURTH TIME ELECTION COMMISSIONER.

Colonel J. J. Dorian, the well known dry goods merchant, has for the fourth time been appointed Republican member of the election commission for McCracken county. This is a merited compliment, Mr. Dorian being the only Republican ever appointed since the election law went into effect.

Colonel Dorian is one of the most popular Republicans in Paducah, and his appointment will be satisfactory to everybody. As he has not received his official notice, he does not know whether he will accept or not.

The third member of the commission is the sheriff, Mr. Lee Potter, the sheriff always being the third member under the amended law.

Chairman Ed Woolfolk of the joint committee to which was referred the matter of securing a filtration plant for the water supply will call a meeting for Wednesday evening to confer with Supt. Muscoe Burnett of the water company and take the preliminary steps towards securing the filtration. COAST ARTILLERY PRACTICE.

Washington, September 1.—The first step taken to carry out the general revision of the methods and discipline of the coast artillery service, provided in the army reorganization act is set out in a general order issued by the war department, prescribing indefinite detail methods for conducting coast artillery practice in the future, and a course of technical instructions for coast artillery gunners. All practice is to be with the moving targets.

Aster Easy to Deal With.

Col. John Jacob Astor was out with one of his eight automobiles a few days ago near his country seat at Rhinebeck, N. Y. A horse belonging to Henry Germond of that place took fright at the whizzing auto, roared and fled backward. Col. Astor stopped and sent his chauffeur back to see what damage had been done. The horse was found to have burst a blood vessel. Mr. Germond said the animal was worth $300, and Col. Astor paid that amount on the spot. The horse died next day.

VON MOLTKE AND THE EMPEROR

Great Soldier Was Actual Commander-in-Chief of the Army.
Gen. Schofield, speaking in favor of the new army bill before a committee in Washington the other day, gave the following illustration: "Von Moltke is probably the best illustration in modern times of what the military chief of staff may be and should be. He was the chief of staff of the German emperor. A report would come in, for example, from the crown prince. He had had a terrific fight and he would say: 'Such and such is the military situation; what are the orders?' Then Von Moltke would read that dispatch to the emperor, and after reflecting for a few moments—or, rather, giving the emperor a few moments in which he might seem to reflect—he would turn to him and say: 'In view of what the crown prince reports, your majesty will doubtless order so and so.' The emperor would say, 'Yes, yes,' and Von Moltke's order went out at once, and was delivered and executed as the order of the emperor, the commander-in-chief of the German army. Everybody knew that it was Von Moltke. Otherwise they would have been very anxious. But he had all that power of the German emperor behind the order and it was Von Moltke's order and he was the best soldier in the world."

Straightening a Theological Kink.

Passengers in an uptown car one afternoon last week were very much entertained and amused by a discussion of things spiritual by two colored passengers. As the debate waxed warmer the voice of the debaters grew louder until what was said was plainly audible to all in the car. After each had made a confession of faith and given his views of the means whereby mortal man could gain salvation, one of the pair blurted out in a tone that implied that all his hope for the next world was embodied in the words: "Well, sah, I b'lieve dat what's gwine to be is sholy gwine to be." "Huh!" grunted his companion, contemptuously. "Den yo' b'lieve in premeditation."—Baltimore Sun

AN OLD SORE

Will sour the sweetest disposition and transform the most even tempered, lovable nature into a cross-grained and irritable individual.

If impatience or fault-finding are ever excusable it is when the body is tortured by an eating and painful sore. It is truly discouraging to find after months of diligent and faithful use of external remedies that the place remains as defiant, angry and offensive as ever. Every chronic sore, no matter on what part of the body it comes, is an evidence of some previous constitutional or organic trouble, and that the dregs of these diseases remain in the system; or, it may be that some long hidden poison—perhaps Cancer—has come to the surface and begun its destructive work.

The blood must be purified before the sore will fill up with healthy flesh and the skin regains its natural color. It is through the circulation that the acid, corroding fluids are carried to the sore or ulcer and keep it irritated and inflamed. S. S. S. will purify and invigorate the stagnant blood when all sediment or other hurtful materials are washed out, fresh rich blood is carried to the diseased parts, new tissues form, and the decaying flesh begins to have a healthy and natural look; the discharge ceases and the sore heals.

Several years ago, my wife had a severe sore leg and was treated by the best physicians but received no benefit. Our druggist advised her to try S. S. S., which she did. Fourteen bottles cured her and she has been well ever since.

"I SAW A RABBIT JUST NOW." WHERE IS IT?

AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION.

FRANCIS RAWLE OF PHILADELPHIA, WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT.

Saratoga, N. Y., September 1.—The American Bar Association elected the following officers: President, Francis Rawle, Philadelphia, secretary, John Hinkley, Baltimore, treasurer, Frederick E. Wadhams, New York, executive committee, ex-officio, Francis Rawle, Philadelphia; U. M. Rose, Little Rock; Frederick E. Wadhams, New York, and John Hinkley, Baltimore, elected members, Charles F. Libby, Portland; Rodney A. Merew, Towanda, James Hagerman, St. Louis; P. W. McElrath, Atlanta, and Platt Rogers, Denver. Vice presidents and members of local councils were elected for each state.

STATE PRIMARY.

IT IS REPORTED THAT THE SENTIMENT IS AGAINST IT.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 1.—The sentiment against a primary in lieu of a delegate convention to nominate Democratic candidates for state offices, and the question as to whether or not the primary can be called under party law seems to have hit the primary faction a solar plexus blow, and it looks as if there is small chance of their having it called. A prominent Democrat said today that he believed if a state ticket should be nominated by a primary the disruption of the party would be such that there would be a strong probability of the defeat of the ticket in the general election, especially as the candidates put on the stump would probably be plurality and not majority, selections of the party.

LARGE PENSION.

A NEW ARRIVAL DRAWS $50 A MONTH.

Paducah has a man who probably draws the largest pension in the state. The Mayfield Messenger says: "Mr. Roland Smith and family moved from Wingo to Paducah Thursday. They have been living at Wingo for about two years. Mr. Smith and his wife were born and reared in Marshall county. He joined the federal army when he was a young man, and, while there, lost his health. Seven years after the war closed, he applied for a pension, and it was not long until he drew $3,600. He is now unable to work but draws a pension of $50 a month, which is perhaps the largest pension in the county. He is one man that needs his pension, and nobody begrudges it to him. He has been married sixteen years and moved to Paducah to make it his home."

—Captain J. E. Williamson has received official notice from Washington that he has been awarded the contract for improvements at the government building, the amount being $2,607.

ASPHALT MONOPOLY.

ATTRACTS THE ATTENTION OF THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN MUNICIPALITIES.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 1.—At the final sessions of the convention of the League of American Municipalities important papers, discussions, elections and incidental business took up the time of the delegates. Another feature was the paper of City Engineer H. F. Fendall of Baltimore on "Street Paving." In it he suggested that the league take action to secure a combine among the cities of the United States against the so-called asphalt monopoly. The plan he proposed was to have the cities fix by ordinance the minimum price to be paid for street asphalt.

J. Adger Smyth of Charleston, S. C., was elected president.

ELEVEN EVENTS.

TOTAL OF $41,800 FOR THE MEMPHIS TROTTING MEETING.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 1.—The program of the second race meeting of the Memphis Trotting Association, October 21 to 30, was made public today. There will be eleven events for trotters and pacers, ranging in value from $1,000 to $8,000, and a total of $41,800 of added money, being an average of over $5,000 a day. The feature of the meeting will be the Diamond Handicap on October 23, with $8,000 added, for 2:15 trotters, and one day Crescens will try to break his own record. The best trotters and pacers of the country figure on the entry list of the meeting.

BIGGEST TOWBOAT.

PETER SPRAGUE TO SHORTLY MAKE HER FIRST TRIP.

The people of Paducah will soon have an opportunity to see the biggest towboat ever built, the big steel hull towboat Peter Sprague, built for the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company by the Iowa Iron Works company, Dubuque, which has been receiving some finishing touches of construction in the St. Louis yards, will leave there Tuesday or Wednesday for Cairo, where she will receive her outfit. The big boat will then go to New Orleans for a large tow of empty coalboats, returning there as far as Louisville, between which city and New Orleans will be her regular course.

RUBBER TREE DISCOVERY.

Mexico City, Sept. 1.—Mr. Rupprecht, a well known botanist, has made a statement that has awakened much interest. Mr. Rupprecht claims to have discovered a rubber tree which can be grown all over the country at altitudes of 4,000 to 5,000 feet above the sea level. This would turn most of the country into huge rubber plantations.

FORTUNES MADE IN TIPS.

One Man Averaged $1,300 a Year for Twenty Years.

In some restaurants in New York the waiters put all their tips in a box and divide equally. That is a very general plan in Paris. As a rule, in this country, however, each gets his own. In one cafe, with three distinct sets of patrons the tipping is so constant that the waiters serving there pay handsomely for the privilege. There is, however, only one such place.

At another well patronized place some of the waiters have served many years. One of these the other day said he had kept account of his tips for twenty years. The lowest on record was $800, the highest $1,800, while the average was $1,300. This means that in tips this worthy man had taken in $26,000 a day during twenty years.

I was quite prepared, says John G. Speed in Lippincott's, to have him tell me that he had educated one of his sons, putting him through college and the law school. This man was Gorman. It probably never occurred to him that there was anything debasing in a tip. And for him there was nothing debasing in it. He lived and acted in harmony with the sphere of life into which he was born. That was all. But it would be an entirely different thing for this son, this beneficiary of tips, to receive one. He is an American and must take fees only. For his father's sake as well as his own I hope his fees will be large.

Studio in a Tree Trunk.

In Golden Gate park, in San Francisco, Cal., is the trunk of a gigantic tree, which is being put into the very odd use of a sculptor's studio. It offers plenty of room for stands, models, mounds of clay, and spectators, for the immense tree butt has been hollowed out till it forms a room a little over thirty-five feet across. The outside diameter of the trunk is thirty-eight feet nine inches. When standing in its native glory the tree was over 325 feet high. Its trunk is now a relic of the big Midwinter fair, held in Golden Gate park in 1893.

MUST SURRENDER SWORD.

As the Accused Officer Had None, He Was Forced to Surrender.

Naval red tape is as stringent as that existing in the army, and sometimes the enforcement of the regulations leads to ludicrous results. Some years ago, when the late Admiral Skerrett was a captain, an officer who had been charged with an offense and ordered under arrest presented himself to be arrested. The regulations provide that on such occasions the officer shall be in full dress and wear a sword. The officer wore his uniform, but had no sword.

"I can't arrest you," said Captain Skerrett, looking for the missing sword, "unless you come prepared to submit your sword to me."

The officer explained that he had not received his sword from home, although it had been expressed to him. "Well, you'll have to get one," was the reply.

Longed for Company.

The late William M. Everts was a great lawyer, but not too exalted to appreciate a joke at his own expense. While he was in the United States Senate his family, which included many daughters, spent the greater portion of the time on a farm near Windsor, Vermont, which its distinguished owner made pay "by crediting the farm with everything taken from him and charging nothing put on." One spring he received a letter from his youngest daughter, dated from Windsor, which so tickled his sense of humor that he passed it around for his colleagues to read. "Dear papa," it said, "do come home; my donkey is very lonesome without you."

White Sands of New Mexico.

The "White Sands" of southern New Mexico lie in the San Augustin plain, and are a sheet of pure gypsum, sixty miles long and five to twenty broad. The white "sands" of gypsum raised by the wind resembles a line of breakers in the distance.

Magazine Simply Asked for Something from His Pen.

While Dr. Seward Webb was traveling in the Far West his friends in Vermont had him in mind for the nomination for governor. It was while he was courting his wife (a daughter of William H. Vanderbilt) that Dr. Webb began his annual visits to the Green Mountain State. To be near her he paid a call upon the late William M. Everts, says the Philadelphia Press, who owned a line farm in Vermont.

Mr. Webb arrived at the ex-senator's house about noon on a very hot day. Luncheon was just served in the dining room, the table placed almost underneath a large old fashioned fireplace. Among other things on the board was a cold ham, stuck all over with spices, which Mr. Everts proceeded to carve.

"Doctor," he asked, "did you ever hear of the — Magazine?"

"Oh, yes," replied Dr. Webb, "I believe it is something new they have just started over in Brooklyn."

"Well, doctor," continued Mr. Everts, "that magazine has written me to send them something choice from my pen. I guess I'll send them a slice of this ham."

Lively Capture of Fish.

While Arthur Moore, aged 14 years, and his brother, Charlie, aged 12, were rambling along the banks of the Ohio river near their home at Beaver Falls, Pa., they came across a pond in a ravine which had been left by the receding waters of the river at the time of the high water a couple of weeks ago.

In this pond were two immense catfish, their exit to the river having been cut off when the water fell. The boys tried to capture them by driving them ashore with sticks and stones, but failing in this both plunged in and grabbed a fish. A terrific struggle ensued, and for some time it was a question whether the boys would capture the fish or the fish drown the boys, but finally the boys prevailed, each bearing triumphantly a big, writhing fish in his arms. One of the fish weighed forty-two pounds and the other twenty-five pounds.

A Creative Force.

A man of experience and observation who has watched the development of advertising until it has become the very life-blood of business enterprises, affirms that advertising does more than attract from a given amount of trade a larger share to the advertiser. He finds that it creates new customers and also that it creates a demand for new or neglected products. It is a force without which no striking success is possible.

LABOR DAY.

This is Labor Day, a national holiday, when celebrations are held in nearly every city in the country and hundreds of thousands of men and women are enjoying outings, picnics and a general good time. It is only in recent years that the celebration of Labor Day has become extensive, but now it extends throughout the length and breadth of the land and is always joyfully looked forward to by old and young. In fact, so universal has it become that the people in general have learned to enjoy it as much as those for whom it was originally intended, the men of brawn, the bone and sinew of the nation, and their families.

In Paducah Labor Day is always a pleasant occasion, and it is hoped that today will be more so than any of the preceding celebrations. Extensive preparations are made by the local unions, and everything is always done in a thorough and painstaking manner. Credit is due the men who provide the entertainment each year for those who are too busy to themselves assist in the arrangements, and it is hoped that today everybody will find recreation and rest and do full justice to the commemoration.

Some time ago the city bought 2,500 feet of rubber hose guaranteed to stand a pressure of 400 pounds for five years, for $2,625. The committee subsequently decided it was not getting its money's worth and cancelled the order. Since then it bought 1,000 feet of rubber hose for $810, and 4,000 feet of cotton hose for $1,940, a total of $2,770 for the entire outfit. Two hundred feet at 51 cents failed to stand the test of 400 pounds, which indicates that the city got the hot end of that bargain, and half of the 1,000 feet of cotton hose has to dry out while the other half is in use. If the entire lot were good hose only 3,000 feet is available for use, and although it gives the city only 500 feet more available hose than it would have had under the first contract, it has cost the taxpayers nearly $200 more, and is very inferior hose, and probably will not last two years. If this is any consolation to the taxpayers they are welcome to it.

It seems that politics makes strange bedfellows, and the changes wrought by time are mighty indeed. A few months ago the rank and file of Kentucky Democracy, ranking with resentment against the "goldbug" element, allowed no one to vote in its primaries except those who had supported Bryan and his platforms and Goebel and Beckham. Now anyone who registers Democrat can vote, and we find the machinery of McCracken county controlled by former goldbugs and Populists. It seems that the latter have not only "come back" into the party, but are getting ready to run it, from Cleveland and Hill down to the local pot-house crowd.

A. B. Keeper, of Owaneco, Ill., who is a chronic inmate and seems proud of it, has started a paper called the "Lunatic Herald" for circulation among the thousands of unfortunates in various asylums and other such places, and all others who desire to subscribe. One of his efforts will be to prove that lunatics are human beings, and the other that a fool never goes crazy or gets baldheaded, therefore it is no disgrace to be crazy, although it is inconvenient at times. The prospects for the unique publication ought to be bright if every person entitled to it takes it.

The vote on the town cow question should not be forgotten. It is a disgrace to a city the size of Paducah to allow the cows to roam at large, and most deplorable that it should become necessary to go to the trouble of holding an election to ascertain whether a majority of the people are in favor of allowing the cows to roam at will or to keep them up. Every progressive citizen who takes any pride in his home and his town will vote to keep up the cow. People can have as many cows as they want, but must be made to keep them up.

The report of a legislative committee on the convict system of that state reveals a condition that should be summarily stopped. The ones are shot down like dogs at times, and are whipped and beaten often until they fall dead in their tracks. When too ill to work they are forced to labor as hard as the well prisoners, and several cases are on record where convicts fell dead from being thus worked. The convicts there are leased out, and there seems to be no ready remedy for the evils reported until the legislature meets again.

The Illinois Central is a road that has few superiors in the United States, and by the recent increase of capital stock will secure sufficient funds to make substantial and extensive improvements, including double tracking in several states. It is also reported that it contemplates absorbing a number of other roads, but this is mere rumor. The Illinois Central is building itself up, and building up all the cities along its lines. It is a good thing to be on such a road.

Boys seem to be getting dangerous. Not long since one who got in the way of a vagrant box car was killed and the jury awarded his people $17,000 against the railroad company. A boy in another part of the state found a percussion cap on the road and exploded it. He got a judgment of $1,600 against the Frankfort Telephone company, probably because the company had no one there to advise him not to explode the cap.

Paducah is now in the second class, and to dance she must pay the bill.

der. We must vote bonds for improvements. It will never do for Paducah to continue drifting in the future as she has in the past. The people are awakening to the grave necessity of availing themselves of the many opportunities offered and holding up the city. After the ball is started rolling it will gain in proportions and strength as it progresses.

The people of Mayfield are either mighty slow or else their horses are good kickers. The Messenger announces that "Uncle Mit" Orler was kicked three times on the same leg at the same time by the same horse. Perhaps Uncle Mit is fond of being kicked.

If Thomas Jefferson could see the Democratic county committee of McCracken county, he would probably throw up his hands and ask to be quietly annihilated.

LITHOGRAPHS TO GO

Theatrical Managers To Abolish
Their Use.

Initiative Has Not Been Taken, But Several Have Decreased the Use.

It appears that the use of theatrical lithographs will shortly be a thing of the past as far as high class attractions are concerned. An attempt was lately made by Frank J. and Claxton Wilstach, managers of Miss Adelaide Thurston, who appears here later in the season in "At Cozy Corners," to bring about the co-operation of theatrical managers looking toward the abolition of lithographs. All the leading managers are in complete accord on this subject, they having come to the conclusion that this feature of theatrical advertising has become an unnecessary burden. The trouble seems to lie in getting some one sufficiently courageous to make the first "break away." Less poster paper is being used from year to year, and instead of the "wild profusion" of cheap paper, such managers as George C. Tyles of Liebler and Co., Frank J. and Claxton Wilstach, managers of Adelaide Thurston; Kirby Lashelle, and George S. McFadden, manager of S. Miller Kent in "The Cowboy and the Lady," have cut down their orders and increased the artistic quality. The idea is to do away with lithographs almost entirely and depend upon newspapers as a means of advertising.

ARE POETS BORN OR MADE?

Authorities seem to agree that poetic talent is somewhat capricious, and that, though many great poets are great by nature rather than by training, they rarely transmit their gifts to their children. Heredity may have some influence on their talents, but recent investigation do not agree on details. Francis Galton, the great English authority, states that, with poets and artists, the influence of the female line is enormously less than the male, while Drs. Chaslin and Mobius, two French investigators, have come to an exactly opposite conclusion. In a recent discussion at the Paris Medical Psychological society Dr. Chaslin stated that the mother of a poet is always intellectually gifted, whereas the son of a stupid woman is always stupid. Apparently the question will bear further study.—Success.

THE SHOPS

IDLE TODAY—SEVERAL ENGINES HAVE BEEN TURNED OUT.

The I. C. shops were idle this morning on account of Labor day and resembled their appearance on Sundays and other regular holidays. There were a few men working about the round house but the shops proper were idle.

The following engines were turned out of the shops this morning after a general overhauling: Nos. 7, 1189 and 281. They have been in the shops for some time, and are now practically new. The engineer started breaking them in this morning, and will have them ready for service within a few days.

Gen. Wheeler Will Not Go.

Commenting on the report that he was going to the coronation of King Edward, Gen. Joe Wheeler says there is at least one good reason why he will do no such thing. "Why," says the little Virginian, "seats at the coronation will cost $1,000 apiece. That lets me out even if I wanted to go, which I don't."

Washington's Birthday.

Washington's Birthday was made a legal holiday by vote of the Massachusetts legislature April 15, 1856; therefore February 22, 1857, was first a legal holiday. For ninety years previous Mrs. Harrison Gray Otis held a reception at her home on February 22, to which all the people of the city of Boston were invited; her house was open to the public on that day, and before and after the day became a legal holiday all the military companies of Boston would parade past her house on the 22d. Probably the first occasion of Washington's Birthday being recognized was February 12, 1781. That was by the French troops at Newport, R. I. As the 11th fell on Sunday, the celebration was held on the 12th. This was according to the old style of reckoning.

Missed the Lobby Barrel.

Considerable amusement was caused when the legislature first went into session by a member from the counties arriving and promptly asking to be shown the lobby.

When that place was pointed out to him he posed around for awhile, and then remarked in the hearing of some bystanders:

"I've been fooled," he declared disgustedly; "they told me I could find a barrel of money loose in the lobby but I see now that it's a dinged lie!" —Baltimore Herald.

Right of Discovery.

There are times when differences of rank do not count, and an Irish soldier is said to have chanced upon one of them during the late war in Cuba.

He was discovered by the sergeant of his company in a hole, well out of the way of even a stray shot, when he should have been engaged in active service.

"Get out of that hole!" commanded the sergeant, sternly. "Get out of it this minute!"

The broad Irish face looked up at him with stubborn resistance written on every feature.

"You may be my superior officer," he said boldly, "but all the same, O'm the wan that found this hole first!" —Youth's Companion.

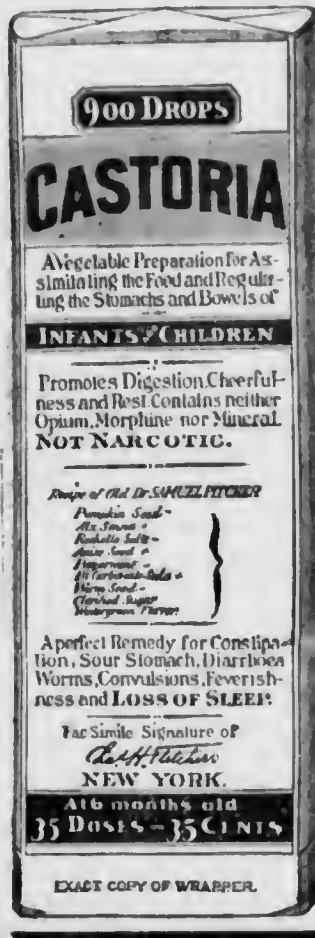

Butter in Coffee.

If we wish to enjoy the peculiar flavors of the coffee made in Norway and France we must doctor the beans and do our own grinding, advises an expert coffee maker.

In Norway, where superb coffee is made, a bit of butter is added to the beans while they are roasting in the covered shovel used there for that purpose. In France a piece of butter the size of a walnut is put with three pounds of coffee beans and also a desert spoonful of powdered sugar. This brings out both flavor and scent, and moreover gives the elixir caramel taste which will be remembered as a pleasing part of the French coffee.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

fired An Attack of Cholera and Saw fiard Campaigning.

Dr. Robert Sievers, who married Miss Grace Daugherty, of Paducah, has just returned to his home in Louisville from a two years' campaign in the Philippines. He is in good health despite the hardships of active campaigning and the enervating climate of the Philippines and an attack of cholera at Manila this spring, says the Courier-Journal.

Dr. Sievers left in July, 1900, and went direct to China, going through the Boxer campaign with the Second battalion of the Fifteenth Infantry. After serving from August to May in China, Dr. Sievers left with the American army and entered upon a term of service at Manila and in Batangas province with the force under General Bell. To this officer, a Kentuckian by the way, Dr. Sievers pays high tribute for his work in pacifying the insurgents there.

During the Batangas campaign Dr. Sievers had a close call for his life. The company to which he was attached was decimated by discharges until the natives, taking courage from the numerical force of the Americans, gathered in strength and drove them from their station at Tobo. Securing reinforcements the Americans returned, and in the light to regain possession a Muser bullet scraped along Dr. Sievers' forehead, leaving a permanent bump. This engagement occurred on January 1, this year.

Dr. Sievers had charge of the cholera hospital from March 19, to May 4 this year, when he was stricken. Good nursing, however, pulled him through the disease which, normally, is fatal in 50 per cent. of the cases and often goes as high as 90 per cent.

Of the military situation, Dr. Sievers thinks the people are pacified with reasonable completeness, except in the southern islands, but he apprehends that a strong military force will be necessary in the islands for an indefinite time to restrain the ladrones, who are continually preaching sedition.

KIDNAPPED

DAVID BALFOUR IN THE
YEAR 1751

BY ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

"Very well," says I, "let us go to the ferry."

My uncle got into his hat and coat and buckled an old rusty cutlass, and then we trod the fire out, locked the door and set forth upon our walk.

The wind being in that cold quarter the northwest, blew nearly in our faces as we went. It was the month of June, the grass was all white with daisies and the trees with blossom, but to judge by our blue nails and aching wrists, the time might have been winter and the whiteness a December frost.

Uncle Ebenezer trudged in the ditch, jogging from side to side like an old plowman coming home from work. He never said a word the whole way, and I was thrown for talk on the cabin boy. He told me his name was Ransome, and that he had followed the sea since he was nine, but could not say how old he was, as he had lost his reckoning.

I asked him of the brig (which he declared was the finest ship that sailed) and of Captain Hooseason, in whose praise he was equally loud. Hooseason (for so he still named the skipper) was a man, by his account, that minded for nothing either in heaven or earth, one that, as people said, would "crack on all sail into the day of judgment," rough, fierce, unscrupulous and brutal; and all this my poor cabin boy had taught himself to admire as something womanlike and manly. He would only admit one flaw in his idol. "He ain't no seaman," he admitted. "That's Mr. Shuan that navigates the brig. He's the finest seaman in the trade, only for drink; and I tell you I believe it. Why, look 'ere," and turning down his stocking he showed me a great, raw, red wound that made my blood run cold. "He done that—Mr. Shuan done it," he said with an air of pride.

"What?" I cried, "do you take such savage usage at his hands? Why, you are no slave to be so handled." "No," said the poor moon-faced, changing his tone at once, "and so he'll find 'ee 'ere," and he showed me a great case-knife, which he told me was stolen "Oh," says he, "let me see him try. I came him to. I'll do for him! Oh, he ain't the first!" And he confirmed it with a poor, silly, only oath.

"Have you no friends?" said I. "He said he had a father in some English port, I forget which. 'He was a fine man, too,' he said, 'but he's dead.' 'In leave's name,' cried I, 'can you find no reputable life on shore?' 'Oh, no,' says he, 'winning and looking very sly, 'they would put me to a trade. I know a trick worth two of that, I do!'"

I asked him what trade could be so dreadful as the one he followed, where he ran the continual peril of his life, not alone from wind and sea, but by the brutal cruelty of those who were his masters. He said it was very true, and then began to praise the life, and told what a pleasure it was to get on shore with money in his pocket and spend it like a man, and buy apples and swing a r and surprise what he called stick to the mind boys. "And then it's not all as bad as that," says he; "there's worse of them men there's the twenty pounds, 'Oh, how you should see them taking on. Why, I've seen a man as old as you I know," (to him I seemed old)—"and he had a beard, too—well, and as soon as we were out of the river and he had the drug out of his head—my how he cri! and carried out! I made a fine fool of him, I tell you! And then there's little men, too. Oh, little by little I tell you, I keep them in order. When we carry little men, I have a rope's end of my own to wallop 'em." And as he ran on, until it came in on me that what he meant by twenty pounds were the unhappy criminals who were sent over seas to slavery in North America, or the still more unhappy innocents who were kidnapped or trepanned (as the word went) for private interests or vengeance.

Just then we came to the top of the hill, and looked down on the ferry and the hope, and at the end of the pier I could see the building which they call the Hooseason inn.

The town of Queensferry lies farther west, and the neighborhood of the inn looked pretty lonely at that time of day, for the boat had just gone north with passengers. A skill, however, lay beside the pier with some seamen sleeping on the thwarts; this, as Ransome told me, was the brig's boat waiting for the captain; and about half a mile off, and all alone in the anchorage, he showed me the Covenant herself. After all I had listened to upon the way I looked at that ship with an extreme abhorrence, and from the bottom of my heart I pitied all poor souls that were condemned to sail in her.

We had all three pulled up on the brow of the hill, and now I marched across the road and addressed my uncle. "I think it right to tell you, sir," says I, "there's nothing that will bring me on board that Covenant."

He seemed to waken from a dream. "Eh?" he said. "What's that?"

I told him over again. "Well, well," he said, "we'll have to please ye, I suppose. But what are ye standing here for? It's perishing cold, and if I'm no mistaken they're busking the Covenant for sea."

CHAPTER VI.

WHAT REVELL AT THE QUEEN'S FERRY.

"Help, help! Murder!"

As soon as we came to the inn Ransome led us up the stair to a small room, with a bed in it, and heated like an oven by a great fire of coal. At a table hard by the chimney a tall, dark, sober looking man sat writing. In spite of the heat of the room he wore a thick sea jacket, buttoned to the neck, and a tall, hairy cap drawn down over his ears, yet I never saw any man, not even a judge upon the bench, look cooler or more studious and self possessed than this ship captain.

He got to his feet at once, and coming forward offered his large hand to Ebenezer. "I am proud to see you, Mr. Balfour," said he in a fine deep voice, "and glad that ye are here in time. The wind's fair and the tide upon the turn. We'll see the old coal bucket burning on the Isle of May before to-morrow."

"Captain Hooseason," returned my uncle, "you keep your room nice 'ot." "It's no habit I have, Mr. Balfour," said the skipper. "I'm a cold rife man by my nature; I have a cold blood, sir. There's neither fur, nor flannel—no, sir—nor hot rum will warm up what they call the temperature. Sir, it's the same with most men that have been carbonaded, as they call it, in the tropic seas."

"Well, well, captain," replied my uncle, "we must all be the way we're made." But it chanced that this fancy of the captain's had a great share in my misfortunes. For though I had promised myself not to let my kindness out of sight, I was both so impatient for a nearer look of the sea and so sicken of the closeness of the room that when he told me to "run down stairs and play myself awhile," I was fool enough to take him at his word.

Away I went therefore, leaving the two men sitting down to a bottle and a great mass of papers; and crossing the road in front of the inn, walked down upon the beach.

Ransome soon came out of the inn and ran to me, crying for a bowl of punch. I told him I would give him no such thing, for neither he nor I was of age for such indulgence. "But a glass of ale you may have, and welcome," said I. He snatched and moved at me, and called me names; but he was glad to get the ale I had said; and presently we were sitting down at a table in the front room of the inn, and both eating and drinking with a good appetite.

Here it occurred to me that, as the landlord was a man of that country, I might do well to make a friend of him. I offered him a share, as was much the custom in these days, but he was far too great a man to sit with such poor customers as Ransome and myself, and he was leaving the room, when I called him back to ask if he knew Mr. Ransome.

"Hoot, ave," says he, "and a very honest man. And oh, by the bye," says he, "was it you that came in with Ebenezer?" And when I had told him yes, "Ye'll be no friend of his?" he asked, meaning, in the Scotch way, that I would be no relative.

I told him no, none. "I thought not," said he; "and ye have a kind of gift (look) of Mr. Alexander." I said it seemed that Ebenezer was ill seen in the country.

"Nae doubt," said the landlord. "He's a wicked auld man, and there's many would like to see him girding in a tow. Jannet Clouston said, some weeks that he has barried out of house and home. And yet he was a fine young fellow too. But that was before the sough gied abroad about Mr. Alexander; that was like the death of him."

"And what was it?" I asked.

"Oh, just that he had killed him," said the landlord. "Did ye never hear that?"

"And what did he kill him for?" said I.

"And what for but just to get the place," said he.

"The place?" said I. "The Shaws?"

"Nae other place that I ken," said he. "Aye, man," said I. "Is that so? Was my—was Alexander the eldest son?"

"Deed was he," said the landlord. "What else would he have killed him for?"

And with that he went away, as he had been impatient to get from the beginning.

Of course I had guessed it a long while ago, but it is no thing to guess, another to know, and I sat stunned with my good fortune, and could scarce grow to believe that the same poor lad who had trudged in the dust from Edinburgh forest not two days ago was now one of the rich of the earth, and had a house and broad lands, and if he but knew how to ride might mount his horse tomorrow. All these pleasant things, and a thousand others, crowded into my mind as I sat staring before me out of the inn window and paying no heed to what I saw; only I remember that my eye-lighted on Captain Hooseason down on the pier among his seamen and speaking with some authority. And presently he came marching back toward the house, with no mark of a sailor's clumsiness, but carrying his fine, tall figure with a manly bearing, and still with the same sober, grave expression on his face.

I wondered if it was possible that Ransome's stories could be true, and half disbelieved them; they fitted so ill with the man's looks. But indeed he was neither so good as I supposed him, nor quite so bad as Ransome did, for in fact he was two men, and left the better one behind him as soon as he set foot on board his vessel.

The next thing I heard my uncle calling me and found the pair in the road together. It was the captain who addressed me, and that with an air (very flattering to a young lad) of grave equality.

"Sir," said he, "Mr. Balfour tells me great things of you, and for my own part I like your looks. I wish I was for longer here that we might make the better friends, but we'll make the most of what we have. Ye shall come on board my brig for half an hour till the ebb-tide and drink a bowl with me."

Now I longed to see the inside of a ship more than words can tell, but I was not going to put myself in jeopardy, and I told him my uncle and I had an appointment with a lawyer.

"Aye, aye," said he; "I've passed me word of that. But, ye see, the boat'll set ye ashore at the town pier, and that's but a penny stoneage from Ransome's house." And here he suddenly leaped down and whispered in my ear: "Take care of the old fox; he means mischief. Come aboard till I get a word with ye." And then passing his arm through mine he continued along as his set off toward his boat: "Dot come, what can I bring ye from the Caroline? Any friend of Mr. Balfour's can command. A roll of tobacco, Indian featherwork, a skin of a wild beast, a stone pipe, the mocking bird that mews for all the world like a cat, the cardinal bird that is red as blood! Take your pick and say your pleasure."

By this time we were at the boat side and he was handing me in. I did not dream of hanging back. I thought (the poor fool that I had found a good friend and helper, and I was rejoiced to see the ship. As soon as we were all set in our places the boat was thrust off from the pier and began to move over the waters, and what with my pleasure in this new movement, and my surprise at our low position, and the appearance of the shores, and the growing bigness of the brig as we drew near to it, I could hardly understand what the captain said, and must have answered him at random.

As soon as we were alongside (where I sat fairly gaping at the ship's height, the strong humming of the tide against its side and the pleasant cries of the seamen at their work) Hooseason, declaring that he and I must be the first aboard, ordered a tackle to be sent down from the main yard. In this I was whipped into the air and set down again on deck, where the captain stood ready waiting for me and instantly slipped back his arm under mine. There I stood some while, a little dizzy at the unexpectedness of all around me, perhaps a little afraid, and yet vastly pleased with these strange sights, the captain meanwhile pointing out the strangest and telling me their names and uses.

"But where is my uncle?" said I suddenly.

"Aye," said Hooseason, with a sudden grimace, "that's the point."

I felt I was lost. With all my strength I plucked myself clear of him and ran to the railworks. Sure enough, there was the boat pulling for the town, with my uncle sitting in the stern. I gave a piercing cry—"Help, help! Murder!"—so that both sides of the anchorage rang with it, and my uncle turned around where he was sitting and showed me a face full of earnest and terror.

It was the last I saw. Already strong hands had been plucking me back from the ship's side, and now a thunderbolt seemed to strike me. I saw a great flash of fire and fell senseless.

When the seven-masted, fleet schooner Thomas W. Lawson sails out of Baltimore with 8,000 tons of coal she will receive as freight money, according to current rates of 70 cents a ton, $5,600 for a week's run to Boston, and she carries only sixteen hands. The most remarkable canvas equipment ever prepared for a schooner, or, in all probability, for any other sailing vessel, is that made by the Rows of Gloucester for the Thomas W. Lawson. The equipment required 83,000 square feet of duck, the raw material having been selected with the greatest care. Only a little more than half the duck, 43,000 feet, went into the schooner's twenty-five great sails, the remainder being used for sail covers, awnings, boat covers and smaller needs.

BIG RAINFALL

IT WAS OVER ONE INCH THIS MORNING IN THIS SECTION.

The heavy rain this morning early flooded many parts of the city, and was 1.6 inches. In many places great damage was done to the streets because of the overflows of the gutters, causing the water to wash deep furrows in the gravel and to fill the gutters with mud and sand.

Many of the drain pipes that take the place of wooden culverts are clogged, and nearly all are too small for the volume of water that results from a heavy rain.

It is feared that great damage was also done to some of the county roads, but no reports had been received by Supervisor Johnson this morning.

Mrs. E. C. Clark leaves tomorrow for Nicholasville, Ky., on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Anderson.

The Great Council of Red Men May Come To Louisville

The Next One to Be Held at Norfolk, Va., Beginning September 8.

Norfolk, Va., will entertain September 8 the thirty-eighth annual session of the great council of the United States of the Improved Order of Red Men. Representatives to the great council and the Council of the Degree of Pocahontas, will attend from every state except Mississippi. The entire membership of the order now foots over 300,000, the growth having been very rapid during the past decade. Kentucky numbers 4,000 Red Men, in seventy tribes, ten of these tribes being in Louisville and Jefferson county, with a membership of 1,400. In accordance with the provisions of a resolution passed last year at Owensboro, to invite the 1903 convention to Louisville, Great Keeper of Wampum S. C. Moore, Great Representative Lawrence Leopold, Past Great Sachem and Great Representative G. A. Ellerkamp and J. M. Holstner, of the staff of the American Red Men, of Louisville; Past Great Sachem Willie Walker, of Lexington, will within the next few days leave for Norfolk in order to be on hand early and make the fight for Louisville. They are all tireless workers, and will ably represent the great council of Kentucky. No members of the Painesville lodge of Red Men will attend, the representation in the grand lodge being taken from the state organization.

"BABY" KELLAR.

CONVICTED OF VAGRANCY AND SENTENCE SUSPENDED.

Keokuk, Ia., Sept. 1.—"Baby" Kellar, eleven months old, was found guilty of vagrancy by a justice of the peace. Sentence was suspended during good behavior, and the baby defendant discharged. The case was tried with nobody in the court room except the mother and her friends, who took out a warrant for the arrest of the infant several days ago as a means of obtaining possession of the child.

It had been declared to be in the legal custody of Elmer Park, secretary of the Associated Charities, on his appeal after the acquittal of the mother on a charge coming within the new law to deprive unworthy parents of their children. The mother still has the child guarded at her sister's house.

GOES AFTER SPRINGER.
